

Tudor Scent

- ✿ A selection of medicinal, dye, kitchen garden herbs & flowers from Tudor times
- ✿ An asset for the gardens of historical country houses, enriching the visitor experience
- ✿ Supports learning about the history of how such plants were valued

All the plants in Tudor Scent were being used in 16th century Tudor Britain as mentioned in William Turner's herbal of 1551. Tudor Scent is a skilful melange of kitchen herbs, medicinal and dye plants with favourite flowers of Tudor times such as Carnation and Lavender. Tudor Scent will generate interest in those who value utilitarian plants, historical buildings and recreating authentic period landscapes and it is the best-scented meadow mix in the Euroflor range.
